reside with the Banking and Insurance Committee, and if any or all of the bills get to the floor, only one, in its final form, is going to become law and then we will have had the chance to see each and every piece of legislation as it has been proposed. Thank you very much.

PRESIDENT: Senator Kennedy.

SENATOR KENNEDY: Mr. President, I think there was a question raised and I know how much effort different people here on the floor have spent in the past two years in attending meetings not only here in the state but outstate on this problem, but the question has been asked, I guess by the Chair, could a special situation under this circumstances, a joint committee which did spend considerable time, all this past summer, and know what the subject is about, could that special committee which is half, or three members out of the Banking and Insurance, three members out of the Health and Welfare, could that special committee hear these three bills for this one occasion. Could this body vote on that, and if it could, maybe that would solve the problem. I have no idea but I think we could talk, is it Judiciary, is it Insurance, is it Health. I am interested in the health and the welfare and the care of the people in the state of Nebraska, but at the same time, I am interested that those bills ought to be heard together. They ought to be heard under one committee. They ought to be heard with somebody that has spent considerable long time working at it and I think that subcommittee has done that. I can't see why this body can't give that privilege to that subcommittee to continue to hear those bills and get them on the floor. The decisions will be made here on the floor. Can the Chair answer that? Can we have that subcommittee, if this body should vote for it, as a special committee only for this one concern?

PRESIDENT: You can create a special committee to hear bills but that would take an independent action of the Legislature.

SENATOR KENNEDY: I think this is the process we are in, and if those that have put the amendments before the body would so agree, they could withdraw those amendments and we could solve it. I don't know but I am throwing this out. I think it could be and I think it is very important that those people that have spent considerable time listening to the testimony and working on it would be involved in hearing those bills. I would...you can't add an amendment on an amendment. We are talking about Senator Lewis amendment.

PRESIDENT: No, he withdrew that.

SENATOR KENNEDY: Oh, then...

PRESIDENT: We are talking about Senator Murphy's amendment.

SENATOR KENNEDY: Then we are back to Senator Murphy and
